Mazda North American Operations Announces Executive Leadership Changes, Effective April 1

IRVINE, Calif. (March 5, 2021) – Mazda North American Operations (MNAO today announced changes to its leadership team. After successfully navigating the challenges of 2020, these updates will reinforce Mazda's service to dealer partners and customers. Effective April 1, changes will include:

- Ryuichi Umeshita, currently Executive Officer of Brand Enhancement, Global Marketing, Sales and Customer Service, has been appointed Executive Vice President & Assistant to the President. In this role, Umeshita will report to Jeff Guyton, President of MNAO, and oversee U.S. Operations. Reporting to him will be Tom Donnelly, Senior Vice President of Retail Operations, and Masaki Otsuka, Senior Vice President of the Alabama Business Unit.
- Tom Donnelly will have expanded responsibilities, including the oversight of Regional Operations, Aftersales, the Technical Service Department, Vehicle Sales Planning, Vehicle Distribution and Network Development. Senior leaders reporting to Donnelly include:
 - Brian Nash, currently Managing Director Eastern U.S., has been appointed Vice President Regional Operations, where he will be responsible for leading all regional teams.

- Rob Milne, currently Senior Director of Supply Chain Management and Technical Services, has been appointed Vice President of Aftersales & Technical Service Department. In this role, Rob will oversee parts operations, technical services, re-manufacturing, the Takata Action Team, along with the aftersales team.
- Yoji Nukina will remain Vice President, Vehicle Sales Planning and will now also lead vehicle distribution.
- Tim Manning, currently Vice President of Network Development, has been appointed Vice President of Strategic Planning. In this role, Manning will report to Guyton and oversee strategy development for our mid-term business plan.

“We have ambitious goals ahead as we enhance our dealer network and increase our product offering,” said Guyton. “With these structural changes at the executive level I believe we are setting the stage for great success. These moves also open up a number of development opportunities for our talented team of professionals across the U.S.”
